Earlier this year, Texas Gov. Greg Abbott signed the Religious Freedom Restoration Act into law, and it was met with criticism from both LGBT groups and business. The Alabama and West Virginia primaries are a big deal in the Republican presidential primary. This is the first state contest in more than a month and only the two major candidates are still in the race, so it will … May 20, 2018nbsp;0183;32;I'm a little late to the game, but I just watched the pilot for the new NBC show Manhunt.Q: Knockoutjs and CSS - for effect I have a button: Save I'm trying to make this button not clickable, but just hover over it. If it were an img, I would use :hover and background images. But here I don't know how to change the button class. I tried using :active and no luck. Any help? Thanks! A: It's impossible in this case, without changing your markup and jQuery implementation. Even if it was an image, CSS properties apply to images. You could set a class to the button and just apply different CSS to it, like in this example: .myButton { cursor: pointer; background-color: #ccc; color: #333; } .myButton:hover { background-color: #aaa; color: #fff; Here is a JSBin example. Q: Are Intel's fanless processors manufactured by TSMC? Recently the Intel CEO made a statement that Intel is shifting their manufacturing resources from X86 to Arm. I am curious to know whether or not Intel will also be shifting some of their manufacturing resources from TSMC to other companies. I know that this would mean that TSMC will lose a large amount of their business. So I am wondering if Intel will be manufacturing their fanless processors at TSMC or at a separate company? If this is the case then 82157476af
